The Business at a Glance

Across all segments, the company generated $118.73M in total sales at a 14.23% profit margin. The numbers below summarise overall performance before the segment-level insights that follow.

Dashboard at a Glance

Built in Power BI, the dashboard lets viewers slice sales by customer segment and year, then explore performance by country, discount band, product and month.

Paseo, VTT and Velo Lead Every Market

Product-wise total sales, all segments

Consistent leaders across every country

Paseo, VTT and Velo are the top-selling products in every country covered by the dashboard, not just on average — the same three products lead the ranking wherever you look.

What this means

Paseo alone sells roughly 50% more than the next-closest product, making it the clear flagship item. Montana and Carretera consistently trail behind, indicating room to grow their share through targeted promotion.

Government and Small Business Lead on Sales - Government

Segment filtering reveals which customer groups combine strong sales with strong profitability.

Government and Small Business Lead on Sales – Small Business

Segment filtering reveals which customer groups combine strong sales with strong profitability.

The Enterprise Segment Is Running at a Loss

The loss margin narrowed from -4.78% in 2013 to -2.70% in 2014 — a sign of improvement, but the segment still needs cost control given how much sales volume it carries.

Channel Partners Deliver the Highest Margin

Underlying record-level data (below) shows why: manufacturing cost for this segment is low relative to sale price, so even modest sales volume converts into strong profit.

Discounted Products Drive the Bulk of Sales

Total sales by discount band, Channel Partners segment

The “None” band consistently trails

Products sold without any discount made up only 6.69% of total sales here — the smallest share of all four discount bands, well behind Medium (32.66%), High (31.48%) and Low (29.17%).

What this means

This pattern holds across the dashboard — undiscounted products consistently add the least value to total revenue, which suggests discounting plays a real role in converting demand rather than just eating into margin.

Where to Focus Next

01

Promote the products Montana and Carretera through ad campaigns or targeted discounts to close the gap with the top-selling products.

02

Reduce manufacturing and other costs in the Enterprise segment — it carries a major share of total sales, so fixing its margin will create a great positive impact.

03

Invest in marketing for Channel Partners. Its profit margin is already the highest of any segment, so growing its sales volume is highly efficient.

04

Keep at least a low discount on products rather than none — undiscounted items consistently add the least value to total revenue.
